What is the Public Transportation Plan and why are we updating it?

- The plan influences public transportation priorities, planning, and investments in Washington.
- Twenty years is a long time and a lot of changes can happen along the way. We need to update the plan so our work adapts to changes since 2016.

Public Transportation Plan update timeline

WSDOT's statement about racism

WSDOT recognizes its part in past systemic racial injustice; we're here to listen, learn, and work alongside you to combat racism now and in the future.

"As the steward of the statewide multimodal transportation system, WSDOT is deeply committed to actively combatting racism and strengthening its anti-racist, diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts to guarantee that our state's multimodal transportation system serves all Washingtonians... As an agency, we acknowledge and learn from the past and commit to a better future by listening, learning, and taking action to combat racism."

Discussion questions

- What are issues or ideas you've shared with WSDOT before that we should be mindful of as we move forward?
- What would you like to communicate to decisionmakers who will read and use the plan?
- How can we best work with you and other community-based organizations during the planning process?

Thank you!
